

Keep one Step Ahead, Provable Computer Knowledge Does Count!

With the growing redundancy figures, more and more individuals are finding themselves looking for work. But what sets you apart from everyone else? More and more local companies are looking for workers who have proven skills in computers irrespective of the job role being offered.

Local training provider, MCW Group Ltd based in Wrexham, has over the past four years been working with companies and individuals to improve their computer skills through recognised programs such as European Computer Driving Licence (ECDL) from the British Computer Society and Microsoft Office Specialist (MOS) or Microsoft Certified Application Specialist certifications in MS Office 2003 or 2007.

Philippa Watts, Director of Training services says, “since July 2008 we have seen a huge uptake in our certified programs and I am delighted to say we have a 95% pass rate for all individuals attending irrespective of their starting knowledge”. Philippa adds “80% of all individuals who start one of our dedicated programs has either found work by the end of the course or has been offered interviews. As a professional training company we understand the importance of building people’s confidence and encouraging them to network with other individuals in the same situation. With this in mind, we offer a flexible approach to courses which allows individuals to attend interviews during course times”.

MCW Group Ltd, which themselves has been recently acquired by Keycom plc, has been in business for 25 years and in this, their silver anniversary year is bucking the economic trend and seeing steady business growth in all areas.

The trainers, Philippa, Steve, Jeremy and Ethna all have extensive experience in delivering training courses to individuals and companies from basic introductory to computers through to code writing. All MCW’s instructors hold either the MCT, MCAS Instructors and/or ECDL assessors qualifications which enables them to pass on their experience and knowledge in a relaxed professional manner thus enabling their delegates to meet or exceed their expectations.

Kate, Karen and Nikki, the training sales team will be your first point of contact when thinking about joining one of MCW’s highly successful programmes. They all have experience in ensuring that you are placed on the right course, at the right pace at the right time.

A recent delegate commented “this well paced learning has given me the confidence to go out and get that job. I never thought at the beginning of the program that I would be able to do half the things I now find so easy”.

Many of MCW’s courses can be funded and for more information please contact one of the sales team on 01978 340353 or e-mail philippa. Don’t delay, start formalizing your knowledge through one of MCW’s many programs and get one step ahead of everyone else.
