The MCW Group Wins National Award

MCW Group, the leading Information Technology services provider in the North Wales and the North West secures a highly prestigious National Award for the large scale implementation of the network security cameras at Knowsley Community College, Merseyside.

AXIS, who are the global market leaders in Network Security Cameras, which have developed equipment which will shortly replace the older and more traditional CCTV cameras. Each year, AXIS UK selects a small handful of leading companies to receive the prestigious awards in recognition for projects which have been well delivered and implemented.

Richard Morris, MCW Managing Director, who received the award during the Annual Partner Conference, is quoted to say "I am delighted to receive this award on behalf of my colleagues who were involved with the project. The Knowsley Community College installation was one of the largest ever network camera installation, which took several months to complete."

Morris goes on to say "MCW was the lead provider on the project, with also involved involving several leading vendors, including installing over 400 AXIS network cameras, Microsoft Server operating systems, Hewlett Packard switches, Milestone software and Proxim Wireless equipment. MCW was well positioned to be able to provide a complete solution which not only included the configuration of all the equipment, but also the installation of all the data and electrical cabling."

MCW has been involved with many Network camera installations over the past three years, which have been deployed into schools, colleges, offices and manufacturing environments. The AXIS cameras provide many
