

MCW Group Ltd
Press Release JANUARY 2008

MCW Group Ltd goes Gold!

MCW Group, the leading Information Technology services provider in North Wales, has recently achieved the highly acclaimed Microsoft Gold Certified Partner Status for the third year running, officially recognising MCW as a truly professional IT company with the highest credentials.

Kevin Williams, MCW Director of Technical Services says "In order to achieve the Microsoft Gold accreditation, we have had to prove ourselves by submitting numerous customer references and proving our ability to deliver quality network installations using a range of Microsoft technologies."

Many of the installations MCW has performed over the past 3 years includes setting up new network infrastructures; providing private networks that enable remote users to connect into their offices; application and technical training courses and, most importantly, the continuing support and help desk facilities available if a customer requires our assistance following the completion of an installation. More recently MCW has won a contract and completed the largest IP surveillance project at Knowsley Community College using AXIS Surveillance cameras and the Microsoft technologies were widely used in the solution.

In addition, Richard Morris, Managing Director of the MCW Group is quoted to say "The Microsoft Technologies are an important part of the MCW portfolio as we firmly believe that our customers are able to maximise business performance and gain a real return of investment when using both the MCW and Microsoft solutions."

MCW continually offers numerous workshops to keep their customers aware of the new technologies. During the first quarter of 2008, MCW will be running a series of Microsoft Application and Server presentations along with valuable server back up workshops. Richard added "We consider that it is important to keep our customers abreast of what is happening in the IT and Communications sector as many new developments can provide significant business benefits and cost saving."
